

Nancy Conley

Software Engineer turned artist in her retirement, Nancy Conley has been on an artistic journey exploring various mediums. These include photography, digital art, life drawing, encaustics, cold wax, oil and acrylic painting.

Nancy is enjoying her journey into abstraction because of the freedom to express emotion in a free form way rather than being constrained by realistic representations. Abstraction is also not limited to a specific medium increasing the possibilities of what can be accomplished. She often includes some of her photography and digital art into her abstractions.

Nancy has been exhibiting for the past 10 years in various galleries in New Jersey and also participates in various online artistic groups both nationally and internationally.
