

Mercedes Farrugia

Mercedes Farrugia had an interest in art since a very young age. She always found inspiration in her surroundings where she grew up in Brooklyn and Florida.

It was when she had three daughters that she decided to take her art more seriously and took 2 years of school to refine her craft. She wanted to teach and show her girls how amazing the world could be with a little creativity. She would always work on crafts with her girls as well as paint their rooms and furniture. This is where her love for decorative painting and faux finishes began.

Today Mercedes is selling decorative furniture in addition to her abstract art and still life paintings. Mercedes has several followers of her abstract art, and will continue to show her love for life through her work.
